Would Continue Frostburg State Teachers' College

The Legislative Council of the Maryland General Assembly did not see eye to eye with proposals made by the Marbury commission when its report was taken up for serious discussion a day or so ago. It was the first real attention to be given the report on Maryland educational policy since it was compiled and published in February of 1947.

The Council opposed the Marbury report in all but one phase—that pertaining to the allotment of scholarships—although it recommends many changes in the system of Maryland education. A section of that report which did meet with some support by the Council was the one dealing with the proposal to combine Princess Anne College with Morgan College, both Negro institutions. The former is presently under the administrative jurisdiction of the University of Maryland. Many members of the Council are reported as favoring the change. But they took no concrete action except to agree that the Marbury recommendation be submitted to the next session of the Legislature, with a suggestion that an additional year's study be given it.

One action taken by the Council, and which holds paramount interest and concern here, was the unanimous recommendation that Frostburg State Teachers' College be continued. The Marbury report recommends that it be merged with Towson State Teachers'

State Senator Robert B. Kimble, a member of the Legislative Council, while excused, at his request, from voting on the Council's action, participated in the discussion prior to the vote in support of that action, and urged that the Marbury proposal be not

Of course, the Council's recommendation that the Frostburg college not be abandoned must receive approval by the Maryland General Assembly, but the fact that that recommendation will be made is welcome news to the people of Frostburg and Allegany county in general as most gratifying to the whole of this section of the State.

According to a survey, many English people think the United States still belongs to the crown, instead of merely contributing to it.

Way To Better Government Housekeeping Being Opened

When he emerged from the White House the other day after a conference with the President, Herbert Hoover announced that Mr. Truman had approved a plan to rearrange some sixty Federal agencies in such a way as to save possibly $3,000,000,000 a year to the

Three billions sounds like an awful lot of money, but there are able and experienced men in Congress, like Democratic Senator Byrd of Virginia, who believe it can be done. The program worked out by the bipartisan commission, named by President Truman and headed by former President Hoover, proposes to show in detail just how it can be done.

Naturally, no one can comment on that report until after it has been submitted to Congress next month. But every Washington reporter and every business man who visits the capital frequently, knows that there is a vast deal of waste in Government administration. Scattered through the maze of Washington and spreading throughout the country is a costly jumble of duplicated effort, confusion and waste in procurement, in gathering statistics and data, in publications, in the management of public buildings, etc. If Congress considers the Hoover Commission report with the same intelligence and integrity that went into it, a great deal of money can be saved in adminis-

For more than 15 years now, the costs of American government have been climbing at a terrifying rate. Yet, whenever anyone urged economies, the spenders demanded to know "just what agency should be eliminated." They always imply that any agency created for what may be a good purpose is necessarily doing a good job, and that the only way to economize is to kill the agency. The Hoover Commission, which is made up of many national experts on public administration and headed by a world authority on governmental efficiency, does not accept that expensive fallacy.

Jesse Jones is reported to have tried to beat a set of fours with a straight. If that's a crime, half the poker players in the world would be in jail.

Cases In Which Term "Nepotism" Applies

Nepotism comes from the Latin "nepos," meaning "nephew," and here is a dictionary definition: "Favoritism to nephews or other relatives; bestowal of patrontage by reason of relationship." The cardinal example in our political history concerns sons and sons-in-law and not nephews, and was, of course, favoritism in the form of civil and military preferment for the relatives of Franklin D. Roosevelt—which even included position on a crowded transcontinental airplane in wartime to a Roosevelt canine. In these incidents the Department of Justice seems never to have interested itself.

When a man employs a son or daughter in his business or profession, and pays for the employment out of his own pocket, that is not nepotism. The term applies only where somebody else foots the bill. One instinctively looks for its incidental appearance in the case of members of Congress, who are permitted to use a considerable amount of Government money in hiring help. So the Justice Department has brought charges of payroll padding against Congressman J. Parnell Thomas, a matter on which the courts will

Word comes from Washington that other Congressmen are "readjusting their office payrolls." It is even reported that Congressional secretaries, in a confidential change of information, gave the names of 17 members in the "kickback" class. The practice, which is not uncommon, has heretofore been winked at. What makes the Thomas case stand out is that the Justice Department returns an indictment against the head of a committee which submitted evidence that Communists occupy highly responsible Government posts, but returns no indictment against any of the men accused.

Russia's expansionist policy continues to stimulate America's charitable instincts.

Abscess Formation

When pus localizes in a specific area we refer to the lesion as an abscess. This reaction to some types of infection van Tellen scesses are hemmed in by certain cells which hold the infected material at bay. The situation may be likened to soldiers encircling an enemy camp, ready to shoot any of the occupants who attempt to leave. As more and more pus develops, however, the tension within is bound to reach the stage where a break through can be anticipated. It is obvious that this will occur at the weakest point in the defending line. When the blemishes are located near the surface of the body, drainage through the skin may be expected. With deeper abscesses, it is difficult to predict where the pus will go.

A boil, which represents infection of a hair follicle, is the most familiar form of abscess. During the period when the involved site is red and tender to the touch, the body is trying its best to gather the purulent matter in one spot. At this time the lesion is hard but as pus gathers, it softens and before long some of the contents is forced toward the surface, creating what is called popularly a "head. to Jane and Julie the boil is "ripe and ready to explode. contents of abscesses consist of bacteria and white cells and is highly contagious. Hence care must be taken not to allow it to come into contact with nearby skin or to reach more distant areas via the hands. When the dressings are changed, the lesion should be cleansed with an antiseptic. This is followed by the application of impotent any germs that escape in the interval between dressings. Now and then the tape used to hold down the bandage causes irritation, which creates a fertile field for more boils to form. It is such factors that are often responsible for the appearance of crops of boils. When this occurs, penicillin may be necessary to stop the process.

.-.-The boil is simple compared with a subphrenic abcess, in which pus accumulates in the tiny space between the right diaphram and the Occasionally this disorder arises as a complication of a ruptured appendix, gall bladder, or peptic ulcer. The noxious material migrates from the original source and finds its way into the liver area. Since this part of the body is protected by the ribs, there are no outward manifestations of the abscess but the temperature shoots up and the victim is obviously ill. Unless the lesion is discovered and drained, the patient runs a downhill course. Penicillin is of value but is not always effective; surgical drainage is generally required 1)r

CRAVES SALT

Mrs. J. writes: What is the reason for an abnormal appetite for salt, lasting over a period of 30 years? Reply

You waited a long time to ask this question. Craving for certain foods is not unusual; in many instances a habit has been formed. On the other hand, an abnormal desire for salt is noted occasionally in individuals with low blood pressure and Addison's disease.

GAGGING ODORS

L. K. writes: Why do some persons develop nausea when they encounter certain odors such as varnish or tar that are not displeasing to others? Reply

Our reactions to bad odors are as variable as to perfumes. No one is the same along this line. Conditioning also plays a role and when nausea is present at first the reaction can often be overcome thru conditioning with exposure. INFECTED SUTURES

Guns Cannot Win a War Alone; European Friendship Does Not Mean Europe Will Fight For Us; Ruhr Holds Opportunity For World Peace

By DREW PEARSON

EDITOR'S NOTE:-Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of letter to Secretary of State Marshall

December 5, 1948 My Dear General Marshall:

You may possibly recall a conversation I had with you shortly after you became Secretary of State in which you talked about the fact that a soldier, in order to fight well, must have the will to fight. sulfathiazole ointment to render Weapons alone, you said, don't make a good soldier.

I remember the conversation most vividly because you talked with such great eloquence and feeling and described various cases during the war when well-trained, well-armed troops did not put their heart into battle because they did not understand why they were fighting.

I have thought of this conversation many times since then. I thought of it a year ago, when traveling through Europe, I had a chance to get acquainted with some of its war-weary people. And I have thought of it more recently as you have proposed a policy of arming these war-weary people as a bulwark of American defense.

The great majority of the American people, I feel sure, agree with your policy, in principle—as do I. Certainly the friendly countries of Western Europe should be armed against the threat of an invading Red Army, and the investment will be more than worth while-if they will fight.

Europe Wouldn't Fight

However, as you yourself so eloquently indicated, guns are no good unless you have men to fire them. And today I greatly fear the people of Western Europe would

They would not fight because they are tired of war, because they do not want to see their farms and factories become another battleground, and finally because they do not see enough difference between the aims of Russia and the United States to get in the middle of another great conflagration.

They like the United States. They trust us more than they do Russia. They want to be friendly, and they are reasonably grateful for the Marshall Plan. But their friendship does not go o the extent of

This does not mean they won't declare war, nor that the generals won't try to lead troops into battle. They will. But generals are worth little without soldiers who follow them, and today the common folks of Western Europe who make up the backbone of any army, just aren't going to follow the generals. They will fade away just as fast as the Belgians, the Dutch and the French faded before Hitler.

I am sure you will find that the intelligence reports of the U.S. Army agree with this.

Battle Of Ideas Therefore, it seems to me that our problem of defense in Western Europe boils down to the question of inspiring the same will to defend themselves that you and others inspired in the American Army from 1942 to 1945.

lions before the war, now acting as our Secretary of National Defense, as our Undersecretary of the Army and as our Undersecretary of State. And they see them carrying out exactly the same policies in Germany which gave Hitler the chance to convert American loans into a wartime machine.

All the efforts by the Voice of America and by American newspapers to tell the true story of American idealism will come to naught, Mr. Secretary, as long as this situation prevails.

Consumers Come First

On the other hand, there is a great opportunity in the Ruhr to build for the peace of Europe. The Ruhr is just as important to the economic welfare of all Europe as it is to Germany. Almost every consumer in Europe has a stake in

And where consumers have a vital interest we, in the United States, have recognized and protected it. That is why we have utility commissions to regulate electric lights and telephone rates. That is why the Interstate Commerce Commission tells the railroad what it can charge for passengers and freight. The consumers' interest is considered more important than the vested interest.

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Check-Up

THE doctors have developed quite They look at your lungs through a fluoroscope; they take your blood pressure. They look at your teeth and ask how many cigars you smoke. When they are do as they say, particularly about your weight, you will gain 10 years

> No doctor will sign a contract to that effect. You have to take his word for it. He will not even tell you the date from which you begin counting 10. Meanwhile, you pay for a lot of machinery including an electrocardiogram, and then you are told that you might drop dead the minute after the doctor told you that the cardiogram told him that you are O.K.

Still and all, a "check-up" is a good thing. You may learn that you are a borderline diabetic, which gives you a yen for pies and pasing which makes you so tobaccoconscious that you smoke twice as much. A friend of mine went on the water-wagon after a "check-up" and therefore would drink no hard liquor except brandy in coffee. He finally drank so much spiked coffee that they gave him Scotch whisky Which means that this is a bat- hand, many a life has been saved by a doctor discovering something that has to be cut off or out before it becomes a menace.

> When a man reaches 68, the age of General Marshall, he should take a "check-up" twice a year to discover if anything has unduly hardened. Men of that age are particularly concerned about hardening of the arteries - arteriosclerosis, they call it - but there are other kinds of hardenings that are just as bad or even worse.

Some people go down to Duke University and eat rice and apricots

when they get that way. The theory is that although the Chinese suffer from about everything else, they don't go in for hardening of the arteries. Therefore, some American researchers decided that if a man goes on this rice and fruit diet, he will increase his longevity. A friend of mine died of this diet, but the doctors only admit that he died.

Now I do not know what hardness General Marshall was checked against nor why the great soldier could not postpone it for an hour or two to meet the little Chinese lady who flew all the way from Shanghai to Washington to talk to him. It might be hardening of the heart. Being neither a physician nor a psychologist, but having taken lots of "check-ups" to atone for my sins, I know that there never was one that could not be put off a few hours to prevent gossip - mongers and liars from reaching and trafficking in false conclusions,

So General Marshall switched himself to the Walter Reed Hospital, which statesmen are finding an increasingly convenient hideout. I hope the doctors do him no harm there and that nothing is found that will interfere with his career. Certainly the doctor will not ask him any embarrassing questions as, for instance, why the United States made a present of Manchuria to Soviet Russia after we had fought a cent mural it will hang in the It isn't fair to ask a General a question that he cannot answer.

It's a pity the General's not waiting to say, "Hello!" to little Madame Chiang Kai-Shek. He could have gone to the hospital from the airport and then he could have had his picture taken with her. There is something so alien to American gentility in all this that the General must regret that he did it, particularly after the lady visited him in the hospital.

There is a saying in China that a wise general always runs away to

Two Years Of Uncertainty Is All People Can Depend Upon By ROGER W. BABSON

Everyone is asking what Mr. Tru- the farmers are entitled to every man and his Democratic Congress will do. This I will discuss to today's for sometime longer. In fact, will probably satisfy no one Since the election William Green, the able President of the American Federation of Labor, was my guest here at Babson Park. There is no doubt but that he feels that Mr. Truman owes his victory wholly to the farmers and the wageworkers. Without doubt the Taft-Hartley Law will be modified in several ways. Certainly, employers should have the right to state their case to their wageworkers; and moreover should be obliged to take the same anti-communist oath as do the labor leaders. It must not be forgotten that a coalition, at any time, of the Pepublicans and Southern Democrats could hold up any legislation that the President might greatly desire. This could apply to unreasonable excess profits taxes, price controls, changes in income brackets New Deal dreams and other legislation which would be apt to bring about a decline in general business. Hence, although there is nothing in the Truman victory which could help business, there is much which cauld harm business except for the influence of the Southern Democrats. Truman And The Farmers

It is an old political slogan that "no one wants to shoot Santa Claus." Certainly, the Democratic Santa Claus has been very good to the farmers who recently have had the most wonderful years in their history. As Mr. Dewey did not make any substantial promises to the farmers, they felt it wise "to let well enough alone." As Mr. Truman is noted for loyalty to his friends, he will oppose any bills which the farmers oppose. Furthermore, the Republicans can expect no help from Southern Democrats in cutting the profits of the farmers. Over a term of years the farmers profits have not been abnormal The farmers are entitled to some more good years to make up for the many very bad years that they had during the thirties and even before. No industry should be judged by the earning of only a few years. An average of an entire cycle should be

He is the greatest factor in the business outlook especially in view of defense spending, foreig loans and the European Recovery Program. Truman can be a modifier of circumstances to some extent. He cannot be the master of destiny whatever his ability. The foreign situation will be further complicated by the political activ ties of the Veterans of World War and World War II which activities were largely forgotten in the recent campaign.

President Truman has fighting ability, political judgment and vig orous health. It is also said that h is "honest"; but I do not under stand how an honest man who i also intelligent could make the promises he did in his campaig speeches. He, moreover, appears t lack judgment in recruiting men outstanding ability and tends to "s off half-cocked" and spring su prises which may be very dangerou I doubt if he also fairly balance loyalty to friends against loyalty t the nation as a whole The Real Truth

The real truth is that Mr. Tr man doesn't know what he is goin to do any more than you who rea this article. The forecasts which columnists and radio commentato. make is so much wasted time. M Truman will try to carry out me of his promises, but he he does no know which ones he will be able fulfill. No one else knows. Hence the only sure thing that readers ca depend upon is that we have to years of great uncertainty ahea Whether for good or evil, I mu refer you to Mr. Stalin's inn thoughts,-not necessarily to whi he says. All of this means the readers should use 1949 for getti out of debt, storing up reserves ar being prepared for whatever has pens, even though this may mea "no change at all.

Would Continue Frostburg State Teachers' College

The Legislative Council of the Maryland General Assembly did not see eye to eye with proposals made by the Marbury commission when its report was taken up for serious discussion a day or so ago. It was the first real attention to be given the report on Maryland educational policy since it was compiled and published in February of 1947.

The Council opposed the Marbury report in all but one phase-that pertaining to the allotment of scholarships-although it recommends many changes in the system of Maryland education. A section of that report which did meet with some support by the Council was the one dealing with the proposal to combine Princess Anne College with Morgan College, both Negro institutions. The former is presently under the administrative jurisdiction of the University of Maryland. Many members of the Council are reported as favoring the change. But they took no concrete action except to agree that the Marbury recommendation be submitted to the next session of the Legislature, with a suggestion that an additional year's study be given it.

One action taken by the Council, and which holds paramount interest and concern here, was the unanimous recommendation that Frostburg State Teachers' College be continued. The Marbury report recommends that it be merged with Towson State Teachers'

State Senator Robert B. Kimble, a member of the Legislative Council, while excused, at his request, from voting on the Council's action, participated in the discussion prior to the vote in support of that action, and urged that the Marbury proposal be not

Of course, the Council's recommendation that the Frostburg college not be abandoned must receive approval by the Maryland General Assembly, but the fact that that recommendation will be made is welcome news to the people of Frostburg and Allegany county in general as most gratifying to the whole of this section of the State.

According to a survey, many English people think the United States still belongs to the crown, instead of merely contributing to it.

Way To Better Government Housekeeping Being Opened

When he emerged from the White House the other day after a conference with the President, Herbert Hoover announced that Mr. Truman had approved a plan to rearrange some sixty Federal agencies in such a way as to save possibly $3,000,000,000 a year to the

Three billions sounds like an awful lot of money, but there are able and experienced men in Congress, like Democratic Senator Byrd of Virginia, who believe it can be done. The program worked out by the bipartisan commission, named by President Truman and headed by former President Hoover, proposes to show in detail just how it can be done.

Naturally, no one can comment on that report until after it has been submitted to Congress next month. But every Washington reporter and every business man who visits the capital frequently, knows that there is a vast deal of waste in Government administration. Scattered through the maze of Washington and spreading throughout the country is a costly jumble of duplicated effort, confusion and waste in procurement, in gathering statistics and data, in publications, in the management of public buildings, etc. If Congress considers the Hoover Commission report with the same intelligence and integrity that went into it, a great deal of money can be saved in administration.

For more than 15 years now, the costs of American government have been climbing at a terrifying rate. Yet, whenever anyone urged economies, the spenders demanded to know "just what agency should be eliminated." They always imply that any agency created for what may be a good purpose is necessarily doing a good job, and that the only way to economize is to kill the agency.

The Hoover Commission, which is made up of many national experts on public administration and headed by a world authority on governmental efficiency, does not accept that expensive fallacy.

Jesse Jones is reported to have tried to beat a set of fours with a straight. If that's a crime, half the poker players in the world would be in jail.

Cases In Which Term "Nepotism" Applies

Nepotism comes from the Latin "nepos," meaning "nephew," and here is a dictionary definition: "Favoritism to nephews or other relatives; bestowal of patrontage by reason of relationship." The cardinal example in our political history concerns sons and sons-in-law and not nephews, and was, of course, favoritism in the form of civil and military preferment for the relatives of Franklin D. Roosevelt-which even included position on a crowded transcontinental airplane in wartime to a Roosevelt canine. In these incidents the Department of Justice seems never to have interested itself.

When a man employs a son or daughter in his business or profession, and pays for the employment out of his own pocket, that is not nepotism. The term applies only where somebody else foots the bill. One instinctively looks for its incidental appearance in the case of members of Congress, who are permitted to use a considerable amount of Government money in hiring help. So the Justice Department has brought charges of payroll padding against Congressman J. Parnell Thomas, a matter on which the courts will

Word comes from Washington that other Congressmen are "readjusting their office payrolls." It is even reported that Congressional secretaries, in a confidential change of information, gave the names of 17 members in the "kickback" class. The practice, which is not uncommon, has heretofore been winked at. What makes the Thomas case stand out is that the Justice Department returns an indictment against the head of a committee which submitted evidence that Communists occupy highly responsible Government posts, but returns no indictment against any of the men accused.

Russia's expansionist policy continues to stimulate America's charitable instincts.

Abscess Formation

When pus localizes in a specific area we refer to the lesion as an abscess. This re-

Van Fellen scesses are hemmed in by certain cells which hold the infected material at bay. The situation may be likened to soldiers encircling an enemy camp, ready to shoot any of the occupants who attempt to leave.

As more and more pus develops, however, the tension within is bound to reach the stage where a break through can be anticipated. It is obvious that this will occur at the weakest point in the defending line. When the blemishes are located near the surface of the body, drainage through the skin may be expected. With deeper abscesses, it is difficult to predict where the pus will go.

.-.-A boil, which represents infection of a hair follicle, is the most familiar form of abscess, During the period when the involved site is red and tender to the touch, the body is trying its best to gather the purulent matter in one spot. At this time the lesion is hard but as pus gathers, it softens and before long some of the contents is forced toward the surface, creating what is called popularly a "head." to Jane and Julie the boil is "ripe" and ready to explode. It throbs and aches to such an extent that movements of nearby muscles produce

The use of warm, moist applications will hasten rutpure. Lancing will have the same effect, but it should not be employed too soon lest it destroy the surrounding barrier. Regardless of the method utilized, symptoms subside quickly as soon as the purulent material is discharged. The central core is the product of thickened pus and strands of tissue that have been mauled by the invading organisms. The contents of abscesses consist of bacteria and white cells and 18 highly contagious. Hence care must be taken not to allow it to come into contact with nearby skin or to reach more distant areas via the hands. When the dressings are changed, the lesion should be cleansed with an antiseptic. This is followed by the application of sulfathiazole ointment to render impotent any germs that escape in the interval between dressings. Now and then the tape used to hold down the bandage causes irritation, which creates a fertile field for more boils to form. It is such factors that are often responsible for the appearance of crops of boils. When this occurs, penicillin may be necessary to stop the process. .-.-

The boil is simple compared with a subphrenic abcess, in which pus accumulates in the tiny space between the right diaphram and the liver. Occasionally this disorder arises as a complication of a ruptured appendix, gall bladder, or peptic ulcer. The noxious material migrates from the original source and finds its way into the liver area. Since this part of the body is protected by the ribs, there are no outward manifestations of the abscess but the temperature shoots up and the victim is obviously ill. Unless the lesion is discovered and drained, the patient runs a downhill course. Penicillin is of value but is not always effective; surgical drainage is generally required for

Guns Cannot Win a War Alone; European Friendship Does Not Mean Europe Will Fight For Us; Ruhr Holds Opportunity For World Peace

By DREW PEARSON -

EDITOR'S NOTE:-Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter to Secretary of State Marshall.

> Washington, D. C. December 5, 1948

My Dear General Marshall: You may possibly recall a conversation I had with you shortly after you became Secretary of State in which you talked about the fact that a soldier, in order to fight well, must have the will to fight. Weapons alone, you said, don't make a good soldier.

I remember the conversation most vividly because you talked with such great eloquence and feeling and described various cases during the war when well-trained, well-armed troops did not put their heart into battle because they did not understand why they were fighting.

I have thought of this conversation many times since then, I thought of it a year ago, when traveling through Europe, I had a chance to get acquainted with some of its war-weary people. And I have though? of it more recently as you have proposed a policy of arming these war-weary people as a bulwark of American defense.

The great majority of the American people, I feel sure, agree with your policy, in principle-as do I. Certainly the friendly countries of Western Europe should be armed against the threat of an invading Red Army, and the investment will be more than worth while-if they

However, as you yourself so eloquently indicated, guns are no good unless you have men to fire them. And today I greatly fear the people of Western Europe would

They would not fight because they are tired of war, because they do not want to see their farms and factories become another battleground, and finally because they do not see enough difference between the aims of Russia and the United States to get in the middle of another great conflagration.

They like the United States. They trust us more than they do Russia. They want to be friendly, and they are reasonably grateful for the Marshall Plan. But their friendship does not go o the extent of

This does not mean they won't declare war, nor that the generals won't try to lead troops into battle. They will. But generals are worth little without soldiers who follow them, and today the common folks of Western Europe who make up the backbone of any army, just aren't going to follow the generals. They will fade away just as fast as the Belgians, the Dutch and the French faded before Hitler.

I am sure you will find that the intelligence reports of the U.S. Army agree with this. Battle Of ideas

Therefore, it seems to me that our problem of defense in Western Europe boils down to the question of inspiring the same will to defend themselves that you and others

Which means that this is a battle of ideas and ideals. Weapons, of course, are necessary. But weapons will only fall into the hands of the Red Army if the people of Europe aren't sold on the idea that we Americans are trying desperately to build up a new order for world peace and that they should help us.

Today it remains an undisputable fact that they are not sold. They are not sold partly because they see the same bankers who loaned the money to build up German munitions plants prior to the war, now proposing to turn German steel and chemical and munitions plants back to the same German cartels which ran them during

They see the same American bankers who loaned Germany billions before the war, now acting as our Secretary of National Defense, as our Undersecretary of the Army and as our Undersecretary of State. And they see them carrying out exactly the same policies in Germany which gave Hitler the chance to convert American loans into a wartime machine. All the efforts by the Voice of America and by American newspapers to tell the true story of American idealism will come to naught, Mr. Secretary, as long as

Consumers Come First

On the other hand, there is a great opportunity in the Ruhr to build for the peace of Europe. The Ruhr is just as important to the economic welfare of all Europe as it is to Germany. Almost every consumer in Europe has a stake in

And where consumers have a vital interest we, in the United States, have recognized and protected it. That is why we have utility commissions to regulate electric lights and telephone rates. That is why the Interstate Commerce Commission tells the railroad what it can charge for passengers and freight. The consumers' interest is considered more important than the vested interest.

Germany has a vested interest

Western Europe have a consumer's interest, and they have the right to put a commission of small nations in control of the Ruhr to look out for that interest. In Europe, furthermore, the orin the Ruhr, but the people of ganizations which have done the best job for the consumer are the big Swedish, Danish, British and Norwegian co-operatives. They are efficient organizations, run by skilled executives who understand European business management, and who are not suspect of building up war plants for the future . If such men, sitting under the jurisdiction of a commission of small nations, operated Ruhr industry, then it would dispel the fears and suspicions of Western

It would cut the ground right out from under Moscow's propaganda. And it would do much to build up confidence on the part of Europe's man in the street-the man who will have to shoulder the gun-that our foreign policy is not dictated by bankers, but by an unselfish desire to build up the future peace of the world.

I apologize for intruding with these thoughts. I do so only because of your own previous eloquence on the necessity of the will to fight, and because a man as busy as you cannot always mingle with the people who in any army must do the bulk of the fighting.

Yours sincerely, DREW PEARSON

These Days By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Check-Up

THE doctors have developed quite a trade in getting us to let them give us a "check-up." They look at your lungs through a fluoroscope; they take your blood pressure. They look at your teeth and ask how many cigars you smoke. When they are through, they tell you that if you do as they say, particularly about your weight, you will gain 10 years

No doctor will sign a contract to that effect. You have to take his word for it. He will not even tell you the date from which you begin counting 10, Meanwhile, you pay for a lot of machinery including an electrocardiogram, and then you are told that you might drop dead the minute after the doctor told you that the cardiogram told him that you are O.K.

Still and all, a "check-up" is a good thing. You may learn that you are a borderline diabetic, which gives you a yen for pies and pastries, or that you should stop smoking which makes you so tobaccothe water-wagon after a "check-up" and therefore would drink no hard liquor except brandy in coffee. He finally drank so much spiked coffee inspired in the American Army that they gave him Scotch whisky to dilate his arteries. On the other hand, many a life has been saved by a doctor discovering something that has to be cut off or out before it becomes a menace.

When a man reaches 68, the age of General Marshall, he should take a "check-up" twice a year to discover if anything has unduly hardened. Men of that age are particularly concerned about hardening of the arteries - arteriosclerosis, they call it - but there are other kinds of hardenings that are just as bad or even worse.

Some people go down to Duke University and eat rice and apricots a wise general always runs away to

when they get that way. The theory is that although the Chinese suffer from about everything else, they don't go in for hardening of the arteries. Therefore, some American created or evolved from the priresearchers decided that if a man goes on this rice and fruit diet, he will increase his longevity. A friend of mine died of this diet, but the doctors only admit that he died.

Now I do not know what hardness General Marshall was checked against nor why the great soldier could not postpone it for an hour or two to meet the little Chinese lady who flew all the way from Shanghai to Washington to talk to him. It might be hardening of the heart. Being neither a physician nor a psychologist, but having taken lots of "check-ups" to atone for my sins, I know that there never was one that could not be put off a few hours to prevent gossip - mongers and liars from reaching and trafficking in false conclusions,

So General Marshall switched himself to the Walter Reed Hospital, which statesmen are finding an increasingly convenient hideout. I hope the doctors do him no harm there and that nothing is found that will interfere with his career. Certainly the doctor will not ask him any embarrassing questions as, for instance, why the United States made a present of Manchuria to war to free it from the Japanese. It isn't fair to ask a General a question that he cannot answer.

It's a pity the General's not waiting to say, "Hello!" to little Madame Chiang Kai-Shek. He could have gone to the hospital from the airport and then he could have had his picture taken with her. There is something so alien to American gentility in all this that the General must regret that he did it, particularly after the lady visited him in the hospital.

There is a saying in China that will do. This I will discuss to today's column, although my conclusions will probably satisfy no one Since the election William Green,

Two Years Of Uncertainty Is

the able President of the American Federation of Labor, was my guest here at Babson Park. There is no doubt but that he feels that Mr. Truman owes his victory wholly to the farmers and the wageworkers. Without doubt the Taft-Hartley Law will be modified in several ways. Certainly, employers should have the right to state their case to their wageworkers; and moreover should be obliged to take the same anti-communist oath as do the labor leaders.

It must not be forgotten that a coalition, at any time, of the Pepublicans and Southern Democrats could hold up any legislation that the President might greatly desire. This could apply to unreasonable excess profits taxes, price controls, changes in income brackets New Deal dreams and other legislation which would be apt to bring about a decline in general business. Hence, although there is nothing in the Truman victory which could help business, there is much which calld harm business except for the influence of the Southern Democrats.

Truman And The Farmers It is an old political slogan that "no one wants to shoot Santa Claus." Certainly, the Democratic Santa Claus has been very good to the farmers who recently have had the most wonderful years in their history. As Mr. Dewey did not make any substantial promises to the farmers, they felt it wise "to let well enough alone." As Mr. Truman is noted for loyalty to his friends, he will oppose any bills which the farmers oppose. Furthermore, the Republicans can expect no help from Southern Democrats in cutting the profits of the farmers. Over a term of years the farmers' profits have not been abnormal. The farmers are entitled to some more good years to make up for the many very bad years that they had during the thirties and even before. No industry should be judged by the earning of only a few years. An average of an entire cycle should be

ALL-AMERICAN LEAGUE YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

SATURDAY'S RESULT STANDING OF THE TEAMS

Cumberland's Dukes emerged the victors in a rough and tumble All-American Professional Basketball League battle with the Altoona (Pa.) Flyers last night at SS. Peter and Paul gym before the largest crowd of the season. The score was 42-39.

GAME TONIGHT

A gathering of over 1,000 persons, 980 of whom paid, saw Coach Louis H. "Red" Klotz's warriors emerge victorious for the fourth straight time this season by pulling a thrilling ball game out of the first after 42 the score had been deadlocked for the seventh time. It was Cumberland's second straight league vic-

HOLLWOOD, Dec. 5 (INS) - Cheryl, and her grandmother, Mrs. Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh Mildred Turner, are on their way best girl, Gloria Hatrick McLean debate going on in Hollywood:

Should he be nominated on the Academy ticket for "Hamlet" or should a special award be given him for his fine performance as Hamlet?

Sir Laurence and Lady Olivier have gone to their home in Chelsea for a rest before he starts work on the stage at the Rita Hayworth old Vic. He will do three plays, "School For Scandal," "Richard the Third" and "Antigone"—the latter with Vivien.

No one can talk him into making another film until he has produced these plays, but after that he has his heart set on screening "Othello."

.-.-Columbia is looking for another actress to take Rita Hayworth's place since she turned down the script of "Lona Hanson."

Miss Hayworth was supposed to leave Saturday for Nogales, Arizona, but she refused to go. S. Sylvan Simon, the producer, is already there working on locations, and the picture has been held up for some time waiting for Rita's return from Mexico, Cuba and other points

Aly Khan is still here, but he is leaving to spend Christmas with his sons.

Chit-chat: It's not David Milford-Haven who Peggy Maley has her eye on, no indeed. Peggy and Buddy Rich, orchestra leader, are a romantic item, and he is the one she really likes.

There are tricks in all trades. even the acting business. When Lee Cobb was refused permission to play in "The Death of a Salesman," which Elia Kazan is directing on Broadway, he flew to New York for an interview.

He was so eager to play "Salesman" that he persuaded Kazan to call Darryl Zanuck to get permission. Since it was Kazan who directed "Gentlemen's Agreement," last year's Academy Award picture, Darryl couldn't very well refuse.

Cobb returned to Hollywood, but heads for New York shortly for rehearsals.

Through the grapevine I hear that Burt Lancaster and Glenn Ford are leading the poll as the most cooperative actors, and Dorothy Lamour and Loretta Young as most cooperative actresses in the 1948 golden apple awards given each year by the Hollywood Women's Press Club.

The girl leading the poll as the least cooperative is Rita Hayworth, and the bad boy on the list is Errol Flynn.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Dolores Del Rio, beautiful Mexican star, has a new and serious romance. He is Antonoro Patino, tinplate king. Patino is separated from his wife, and built a big castle in France where he entertained at party in honor of Dolores.

Lana Turner's little daughter,

A true and interesting fact is that unless it had proven value and merit, no amount of advertising could possibly have built up the reputation that FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE has earned and maintained since 1855 for the relief of coughs due to colds by its soothing effect on the throat.

KEEPING UP WITH.

Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh Mildred Turner, are on their way best girl, Gloria Hatrick McLean debate going on in Hollywood: Should he be nominated on the Academy ticket for "Hamlet" or should a special award be given him for his fine performance as Hamlet?

Sir Laurence and Lady Olivier have gone to their home in Chelsea for a rest before

he starts work on the stage at the Rita Hayworth old Vic. He will do three plays, "School For Scandal," "Richard the Third" and "Antigone"-the latter with Vivien.

No one can talk him into making another film until he has produced these plays, but after that he has his heart set on screening "Othello."

Columbia is looking for another actress to take Rita Hayworth's place since she turned down the script of "Lona Hanson." Miss Hayworth was supposed to leave Saturday for Nogales, Arizona, but she refused to go. S. Sylvan Simon, the producer, is already there working on locations, and the picture has been held up for some time waiting for Rita's return from Mexico, Cuba and other points

Aly Khan is still here, but he is leaving to spend Christmas with his sons.

Chit-chat: It's not David Milford-Haven who Peggy Maley has her eye on, no indeed. Peggy and Buddy Rich, orchestra leader, are a romantic item, and he is the one she really likes.

There are tricks in all trades, even the acting business. When Lee Cobb was refused permission to play in "The Death of a Salesman," which Elia Kazan is directing on Broadway, he flew to New York for an interview.

He was so eager to play "Sales-man" that he persuaded Kazan to call Darryl Zanuck to get permission. Since it was Kazan who directed "Gentlemen's Agreement," last year's Academy Award picture, Darryl couldn't very well refuse. Cobb returned to Hollywood, but heads for New York shortly for rehearsals.

Through the grapevine I hear that Burt Lancaster and Glenn Ford are leading the poll as the most cooperative actors, and Dorothy Lamour and Loretta Young as the most cooperative actresses in the 1948 golden apple awards given each year by the Hollywood Women's Press Club.

The girl leading the poll as the least cooperative is Rita Hayworth, and the bad boy on the list is Errol Flynn.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random

Dolores Del Rio, beautiful Mexican star, has a new and serious romance. He is Antonoro Patino, tinplate king. Patino is separated from his wife, and built a big castle in France where he entertained at party in honor of Dolores.

Lana Turner's little daughter

A true and interesting fact is that unless it had proven value and merit, no amount of advertising could possibly have built up the reputation that FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE has earned and maintained since 1855 for the relief of coughe due to colds by its soothing effect on the throat.

Whitworth Heads County Delegation

Veterans Propose World War II Bonus

The Allegany County Delegation Americans must take a greater coin collector, will speak on collector to the Maryland General Assembly interest in world affairs if our role tions noted during a recent trip to heard a proposal that state veterans of World War II be paid a bonus that will total $150,000,000 and then held a caucus at which Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., was re-elected chairman of the delegation.

The bond proposal was made at a meeting with representatives of county veteran organizations held in Cumberland's city hall. The veterans proposed that the money be furnished by a state bond issue that would be redeemed with surplus amounts from the sales tax. The delegation caucus was held following the meeting with the veteran representatives and Whitworth was elected unanimously to head the delegation at its second regular session. Two special sessions have been held since the present delegates were elected, and he also held the position for these.

City's Charter Completed After 9-Months Work

Proposed Rules Are Ready For Prints

The Cumberland Charter Commission's nine months of work is ready to go to press today. The recommendations which members gave the final once-over Saturday and Sunday contains many far reaching clauses on government for the City of Cumberland.

Some of the last minute additions and changes include a self-liquidation bond project, regulations for bonding city employes and two governing the paving of streets and how the costs for such work will be

Members of the Commission said last night work of printing the proposed charter in Maryland legislative bill form will get underway this week. Over 500 copies are expected to be ready for distribution in two weeks time

Arrived At Parking Lot

The bond liquidation clause, which is primarily ailmed at a parking lot for the city, proposes a plan whereby the city can issue bonds with a plan of liquidating them with revenue obtained for the project. Presently the bonds must be paid for out of the general fund.

The two clauses affecting street paving prohibit the city from paving streets at property owners' expense in less than 15 years after once completing the project. The present law prohibits repaying at proerty owners exense in less than

Veterans Propose World War II Bonus

The Allegany County Delegation of World War II be paid a bonus that will total $150,000,000 and then held a caucus at which Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., was re-elected chairman of the delegation.

The bond proposal was made at a meeting with representatives of county veteran organizations held in Cumberland's city hall. The veterans proposed that the money be furnished by a state bond issue that would be redeemed with surplus amounts from the sales tax. The delegation caucus was held following the meeting with the veteran representatives and Whitworth was elected unanimously to head the delegation at its second regular session. Two special sessions have been held since the present delegates were elected, and he also held the position for these.
